SUMMARY

Dr. Justin A. DeSimone is an Associate Professor of Management at the University of Alabama. His research focuses on topics relevant to human resource management, organizational behavior, measurement, research methods, and data analysis. His research has appeared in the Journal of Management, Journal of Applied Psychology, and Organizational Research Methods. He is currently serving as an associate editor at Organizational Research Methods and was previously associate editor at the Journal of Organizational Behavior. He also served on the editorial review board for these journals, as well as the Journal of Management and Journal of Business and Psychology. He is a regular contributor to the Consortium for the Advancement of Research Methods and Analysis (CARMA), also serving as an advisory board member and associate editor for short courses. Additionally, he serves as a representative-at-large for the Research Methods Division of Academy of Management.

Dr. DeSimone has taught at the undergraduate, masters, MBA, executive, and Ph.D. levels. His course topics include human resources, organizational behavior, leadership, personality, strategy, entrepreneurship, negotiation, research methods, statistics, and artificial intelligence.
